[Special to The Advocate]
Summerland Beach, Buckeye Lake
Aug. 24.—Leaders in the anti-saloon league organization convened here today to formulate plans for the campaign this fall in behalf of statewide prohibition. The conference was made up of members of the executive committee of the Anti-saloon league, its state officials and chairman of the "dry" organizations in the various counties.

James A. White, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league presided and Colonel Worthington Kautzman of Columbus; Charles Stelzie of New York and John Schaubly of Westerville were among those who were active in the deliberations of the conference.

It was semi-authoritatively stated that the campaign for state wide prohibition will be formally opened in some of the counties as early as the middle of September while in others the opening will be delayed until October 1. The date of the opening in each instance will be left to the discretion of the various county organizations which it is stated have been carried over intact from the campaign of last year.

Not only will the county organizations dictate the time of opening and the general character of campaign to be conducted in each county, but each county will, as near as possible, finance its own expenses. It was generally understood this forenoon. This method of financing the campaign was adopted last year and its operation at that time is held to have been satisfactory.

While those in attendance are giving some attention to the proposed "constitutional stability" amendment which seeks to restrict the number of times which amendments may be submitted it was stated that only incidental consideration was being given this subject at this time.
The matter of state-wide prohibition is to be made to overshadow all other issues.

Charles Stelzie, of New York gave the conference a report of the progress said to have been made in promotion of prohibition sentiment among laboring men of the country.
Stelzie is in charge of this work under the national body of the anti-saloon league.

The morning session was devoted to reports from the various county organizations with discussion of the (Associated Press Telegram)

Lima, Ohio, Aug. 24.—Fred Gunther, a 12-year-old victim pedestrians fleeing before him.

He bit into two trees, telegraph poles and fences. Mothers in the neighborhood hurried their children to safety. Men were afraid to go near him. Not until he was exhausted was he captured by throwing blankets over him. Physicians reported this morning that he would die.
The boy was bitten by a dog ten days ago. It was not known that the dog had hydrophobia. He was rounded up and shot.

Gas Famine May Be Result Of Break In Mains, Caused By Floods In Arkansas Cities

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 24.—Little Rock, Hot Springs, Pine Bluff, and a number of other Arkansas towns, today were threatened with a gas famine as the result of floods causing a break in the main at Red River, near Lewisville. Local officials announced the supply of gas would be exhausted by noon tomorrow.

Newport today remained cut off from railroad communication with the outside world by the flood water of White river. Although the water has risen little since last night, reports from points above Newport indicate that a further rise may be expected.

About 4,000 residents of Newport and vicinity crowded into two local hotels, the courthouse, the Iron Mountain depot and a few homes into which the water did not rise.
Steamboats continued bringing refugees out of the flooded district. Telegraph communication was resumed with Batesville today. Refugees who were taken there from Oil Trough, denied that a family of five persons were drowned in the overflow in the bottoms near Oil

PRESIDENT WILSON REWARDS HERO WHO SAVED 5 SAILORS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
New York, Aug. 24.—In recognition of his services in rescuing five sailors of the wrecked steamship Oklahoma, more than a year ago, Captain William T. Aspinall, of the steamship Gregory had just received today a gold watch and compass as the gift of President Wilson. The gifts were sent to England and thence to the British consul in New York, who presented them to Captain Aspinall yesterday. The Oklahoma was wrecked at sea not far from New York, January 4, 1914. Two of the officers of the steamer Gregory who jumped into the sea and rescued some of the Oklahoma's sailors received binoculars from the president.
These men have since been killed in the war.

Plattsburg, New York.—A scene at the drill grounds of the Business Men's Military Training Camp here, showing a number of companies out for their first drill, fully equipped. The men in the immediate foreground who seem to be very awkward soldiers by the way they handle their guns, have merely been given the order change arms from a left to a right shoulder. In this picture there are some of the most prominent men in the different walks of life in the United States.

A BOSTON FIRM REFUSES TO SELL ATLANTA GOODS

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 24.—A Boston firm which for the past two years has furnished the city of Atlanta with caulking yarn and tools, has refused to have further dealings with the municipal authorities until action is taken in connection with the lynching of Leo M. Frank, according to W. E. Chambers, city purchasing agent.

Mr. Chambers today made public the following letters received from the concern:
"Answering your letter of the 17th, we do not care to quote prices on caulking and we do not wish to solicit further any of the business of the city of Atlanta until the state of Georgia has taken official action looking to the apprehension and punishment of those men who murdered Leo M. Frank."
The communication was signed by the president of the company.

CONFERENCE ON UNIVERSITIES IS OPENED IN BOSTON

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Boston, Aug. 24.—A conference on universities and public service, which was opened here today in connection with the governors' conference drew here many students of public service problems. The object of the meeting was to discuss every possible plan for making public service officials more efficient.
Dr. Charles McCarthy, head of the Wisconsin legislative reform library and Samuel McCormick, chancellor of Pittsburg university were speakers at the opening session.

were held up by British cruisers in the North Sea on three different occan vice consul at Rostov, Russia.

Coroner's Jury Fails To Identify Any Lynchers; Returned Such a Verdict

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Marietta, Ga., Aug. 24.—At 11:40
a. m. the coroner's jury inquiring into the lynching of Leo M. Frank refused to consider its verdict without having heard any testimony concerning the identity of any person connected with the affair.

The jury in three minutes returned a verdict that Frank "came to his death by hanging at the hands of parties unknown."
The jury of inquest was empan-nelled just after Frank's body was cut down from the oak near the William Frey gin house. At that time members of the jury heard two witnesses as to the identity of the dead man and then adjourned until today, so the inquest might proceed in a calmer atmosphere and to permit the coroner to collect evidence.
Special counsel for the coroner was provided by the county commissioners.

Coroner Booth had set 10 o'clock as the hour for the jury to meet today at an undertaking establishment.
Several persons said to have seen the lynching party on the road near Marietta were expected to tell what they knew, but the likelihood of learning the identity of any of the participants in the affair has all along been regarded as distinctly remote.

Some members of the coroner's jury, it was said today, had expressed doubt that they could reach at this time any other conclusion than that Frank came to his death at the hands of "parties unknown." The lynching will be officially called to the attention of the Cobb county grand jury September 1.

When the time for the jury to assemble arrived the coroner decided to transfer the inquest to the county court house to accommodate the large crowd on hand to hear the testimony.

Attorney John Dorsey of Marietta, representing the State of Georgia, and Gordon Gann acted as special attorney for Coroner Booth.

There was some talk early in the day of holding the inquest in execution session. It was argued that the witnesses might be more communicative in a closed session. The idea of secrecy, however, was soon dismissed.

The jury was composed of six residents of the county, Dr. W. H.
Perkinson, being foreman.

Dr. C. D. Elder, the first witness called to the stand, testified to viewing the body of Frank while it was still hanging in the oak grove near the Frey cotton gin. Dr. Elder did not know Frank personally, but was told the body was that of Frank. He was not present when the body was cut down. When he arrived on the scene of the lynching, the body was still warm.

"Do you know any of the circumstances surrounding the hanging?" asked Mr. Dorsey.

"Absolutely nothing," replied the witness.

"You were among the first to reach the scene?"

"Yes, sir."

"How many people were present when you arrived?"

"Perhaps half a dozen."

"Do you know who they were?"

"Yes, sir."

"Please name them," requested Mr.
Gann.

"As I came up, two men were running out of the woods. One of them was Joe Carter and the other was a man they told me was representing the Associated Press. I also saw W.
J. Frey, E. L. Robinson and W. A.
Sams."

"Was Frank dead?"

"Yes, sir, the death rigor had not set, however."

"Was there any mutilation of the body?"

"No, sir, the only mark I saw was the cut in the neck that had been opened by the rope."

Dr. W. M. Kemp, another physician, testified that Frank's death was due to strangulation.

"Do you know anything about the commission of this act?" asked Mr.
Dorsey.

"Nothing whatever."

"That's all."

J. Bart Wing, a Cobb county commissioner, was the next witness. He also was among the first to reach the scene of the lynching after the body was discovered.

"Do you know anything about the hanging?" he was asked.

"Nothing."

STORM DESTROYS BANANA TREES IN THE WEST INDIES

New York, Aug. 24.—The hurricane which recently swept over the West Indies, destroyed 90 percent of the banana trees on the north side of the island of Jamaica, according to officers of the steamer Commodore Rollins, which arrived today.
The steamer brought a large cargo of bananas which were cut from the trees felled by the hurricane.

Willis Threatens Removal Of Any Official Instigating Referendum On McDermott Bill

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Columbus, Aug. 24.—Governor Willis this afternoon gave out a statement, in which he said that he was vigorously opposed to the proposed referendum on the McDermott liquor license law. The statement added that the governor has called a meeting of members of the state liquor license commissioners to determine if any appointive officers are involved in the movement for the referendum.
Removal from office is promised if evidence is found establishing any such connection.

The governor also denounced as without the semblance of foundation the published report that he had entered into an alliance with former United States Senator Charles Dick of Akron; former Congressman Ralph D. Cole of Hancock county, now of Columbus, by which they were to advance each other's political interests.
"There was not the slightest foundation for such a report," said the governor. "Such a thing has never been contemplated, has not been suggested and never will be entered into," he added. "I will make no alliance with any one for political purposes."

The governor said that the fact that Judge Frank H. Kerr of Steubenville, one of his original supporters, had been engaged to manage the proposed referendum, in no way involved the governor's administration. He said that he had seen the judge and did not know why he had agreed to go into the movement.

It has been alleged that members of the county liquor licensing boards in some instances were actively support-

SHIP BUILT ON HISTORIC MODEL IS UNSEAWORTHY

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
New York, Aug. 24.—The Caravel Santa Maria, built on the model of the famous vessel in which Christopher Columbus crossed the Atlantic in 1492, is so unseaworthy that she will not be able to make the voyage from New York to San Francisco for the Panama Pacific exposition, according to experts.

The Caravel left Chicago in 1913 in company with her sister ship, the Nina and Pinta, but were caught in the ice on the way and the two later were compelled to return to Chicago. The Santa Maria reached New York and was laid up for repairs with the intention of towing her to Colon, through the Panama canal and thence to San Francisco.
It is estimated that it would cost $18,000 to make her seaworthy again.

WE BELIEVE that the completion of our new building is an event of more than passing interest and of deep significance.

Other buildings may represent the success or enterprise of an individual.

But the New Home of this "Old Home" Building Association Company is a tangible proof of the thrift of an entire city.

Thirty-five years ago this Association was conceived in a spirit of helpfulness.

Purely mutual in character, organized and operated solely in the interests of its members, it has helped thousands of people to save and has loaned these savings for the building of homes.

This plan has given savers the safest form of security and at the same time helped thousands of people to the joys of home ownership. The carrying on of this plan for 35 years has been a powerful and practical influence in making Newark a city of true home owners.

Precisely the same principles of thrift which we advocate for individuals have been followed in the business of the company.

We have saved money, setting aside each year some of our earnings to insure the future stability of the business and to increase the safety of our depositors' funds.

To meet the necessities of the large and growing business attracted here by our conservative methods, we have been obliged to erect our new building, specially planned for the convenience and comfort of our customers and for the more efficient handling of their business.

Standing on one of the most prominent corners in Newark this new building is an evidence of what thrift and saving have already accomplished and we hope and believe it will prove an inspiration to further effort by our old friends and serve to bring the benefits and enlarged service of this mutual company to thousands of new friends.

Our new building will be open for public inspection this evening from 7 to 10 o'clock.

Great Arms Factory at Bridgeport Said to Be Controlled By Germans

Joseph W. Hoadley, Upper Left Corner.

Walter H. Knight in Center at Right.

These photographs show the great war munitions factory at Bridgeport, known as the Bridgeport Projectile Company, said to have been built with German money, despite the fact that Germans all over the United States, and in particular German officials, have denounced the American government for permitting the shipment of arms and ammunition to the allies. Walter H. Knight is president of the company, and is actively engaged at Bridgeport during the construction of the buildings. Joseph W. Hoadley, the financier, whose spectacular handling of International Power company stock some years ago was one of the sensations of Wall street, would not discuss the question when he was asked if he would deny that he held stock control of the company. But he was quoted as saying: "I will not answer any question until I know how my statement is to be used. It's none of the public's business. What difference does it make if the German government is financing the Bridgeport Projectile Company? What difference does it make who puts up the money? But you need not think these accusations are going to stop now. They are not national or international; they are world accusations. England, France and Germany will not let the matter rest now." Revelations, which the United States attorney general is now investigating, have been made concerning the financing of this big company. They show that the negotiations have been handled by Carl Heyman, former agent in Mexico of the Hamburg-American Steamship company, for Hugo Schmidt, agent in the United States for the Deutsche bank, one of the great banks of Germany, which does an enormous business with the government there. Payments to the Bridgeport company are said to have been made by the German bank through the Guaranty Trust company of New York.

For Freckled, Tanned, Red or Wrinkled Skin

Just beneath that freckled, tanned or reddened complexion there's an exquisitely beautiful skin of youthfulness and delicacy. If you could only bring this complexion to the surface, discarding the discolored one, you can—in the easiest, simplest, most natural manner imaginable. Just get at any drugstore an ounce of ordinary mellecol wax, apply nightly like cold cream, removing it mornings with warm water. The wax assists Nature by gradually peeling off the lingering particles of scorched and half-dead surface skin, causing no discomfort whatever. Cutaneous defects like pimples, blotches, liver spots, moth patches, freckles, of course disappear with the old skin. Nothing else will accomplish such wonderful results in so short a time.

Fine lines and even deeper wrinkles often appear at this season. In such cases nothing is better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered salolite in 1/4 pt. witch hazel. This is remarkably effective.

TO ERECT MEMORIAL TO JOSEPH A. HOLMES.
(Associated Press Telegram) Pittsburgh, Aug. 24.—A memorial is to be erected here to the late Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, who was director of the United States bureau of mines. Lauson E. Dr. Holmes died in Colorado last July.

BUYING JEWELS SIGN OF RETURN OF GOOD TIMES

(Associated Press Telegram) New York, Aug. 24.—The fact that people are again buying jewelry was cited by T. L. Combs, of Omaha, Neb., president of the American National Retail Jewelers' Association, in the opening session of its convention here, as evidence of good times are returning. The convention began yesterday and will remain in session until Saturday.

"The jewelry business is a good barometer," said Mr. Combs. "People are now buying jewelry and there seems to be no tendency to hoard money. In the jewelry business the panicky war times are no more."

Samuel Hershenstein, assistant United States district attorney, announced to the jewelers that an effort will be made in congress to amend the penal code so that the time during which a bankrupt is absent from the jurisdiction of the state will not be included in granting exemption under the statute of limitations.

ANOTHER ADVANCE MADE IN CRUDE OIL.

(Associated Press Telegram) Pittsburgh, Aug. 24.—Five cents a barrel was added to the price of the principal grades of crude oil today when the South Penn Oil company announced the following rates: Pennsylvania crude $1.60; Mercer black, Newcastle and Cabell $1.20; Coking $1.06. Two cents were tacked to Ragland bringing it to 65 cents. But there was no change in Somerset. This is the third advance within two weeks.

LIMA PRICES RISE.

(Associated Press Telegram) Lima, Ohio, Aug. 24.—The upward trend of the crude oil market continued with the opening here today when Pennsylvania, Southeastern Ohio and allied grades were advanced five cents a barrel to $1.60. Kentucky advanced three cents to $1.03 while Texas grades and Canada oils also advanced five cents.

In addition to nuts used in confectionery the Indian cashew tree yields an insect repelling gum, a juice that makes an indelible ink and three kinds of oil, one edible and the others used to tan fishing nets and preserve wood.

Fire Lands.
The phrase "fire lands" originated in a passage of early history, which also gave rise to the term "western reserve." After the Revolutionary war, when the colonies consented to cede their claims to western lands to congress, Connecticut reserved from her cession a tract embracing a large part of northern Ohio. The tract thus reserved included the present counties of Trumbull, Geauga, Portage and Ash-tabula and became known as the western reserve. It was settled chiefly by emigrants from Connecticut and was sometimes called New Connecticut. In promoting the settlement of the land Connecticut reserved half a million acres from the western end of the tract for bestowal upon her citizens who had suffered losses during the war, and the lands embraced in this special reserve were called "sufferers' lands" and later "fire lands," because most of the sufferers had been losers by fire. In early times the phrase "fire lands" was sometimes used in deeds in describing the location of land in the tract referred to. — Philadelphia Press.

Love of Money.
The love of money can hardly be the root of all evil, for it is only one perverse passion out of many. But there is a kind of decorum about money which makes the love of it peculiarly dangerous, since it conceals from the lover the nature and effects of his passion. If a man wants too much food, he is evidently greedy. If a woman wants too many clothes, she is evidently vain. But money is not a thing, like clothes or food, that can be enjoyed by itself. It is only a means of getting things that can be enjoyed, and so greed for money is not a direct greed, but indirect. It is a civilized means of conducting the struggle for life, which to a great extent conceals from those who use it the ugliness and the animal nature of that struggle. It is, in fact, a kind of diplomacy, politely conducted, behind which there is war. But the diplomats often do not see the war. — London Times.

Chesterfield on Toothbrushes.
When did the English first adopt the toothbrush habit? In "Esmond" Thackeray makes Lord Castlewood spend "a tenth part of his day in the brushing of his teeth and the oiling of his hair," and in doing so the novelist commits a double anachronism. During the first half of the eighteenth century all fine gentlemen wore wigs and had no use for oil on their hair, while the toothbrush was so late as 1754 unknown to Lord Chesterfield. Writing to his son, Chesterfield says: "I hope you take great care of your mouth and teeth, and that you clean them well every morning with a sponge and tepid water, with a few drops of arquebuse water dropped into it. I do insist upon your never using those sticks, or any hard substance whatever, which always rub away the gums and destroy the varnish of the teeth." — London Graphic.

Porpoise Jaw Oil.
Practically all the porpoise oil used in this country, even if not in the world, for lubricating watches and other delicate instruments is made near New Bedford, Mass., which many years ago was important as a whaling port. The product is taken from the jaw and certain other parts of the animal, which is caught especially for this purpose. When the industry was in its infancy whalers were depended upon to supply the porpoise, but now the manufacturers maintain a fishing department, which follows the schools of porpoise migrating along the coast and furnishes a continual supply of them. The history of the New Bedford industry reaches back to the early part of the nineteenth century to a watch tinker who regulated and cleaned the timepieces of the whalers. — Popular Mechanics.

He Taught Him.
Yells from the nursery brought the mother, who found the baby gleefully pulling small Billy's curls.
"Never mind, darling, she comforts. "Baby doesn't know how it hurts." Half an hour later wild shrieks from the baby made her run again to the nursery.

"Why, Billy," she cried. "What is the matter with the baby?"
"Nothing, muzzer," said Billy calmly, "only now he knows!" — Harper's Weekly.

Injured Innocence.
Irate Parent—What do you mean by holding Willie Jones down in the mud and skinning his nose?
Young Culprit—It wasn't my fault he got his old nose skinned. The mud where I had him was soft, but he kept wriggling around and hit his back on a rock. — Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Swelled.
Mr. Woggs—I'm through with Bump. I told him we are going to name our baby after some great personage and asked him for a suggestion. Mrs. Woggs—What did he say? Mr. Woggs—He said, "Name it after ours." — Boston Journal.

Why They Sting.
Bill—You never see a bee trying to extract honey from the artificial flowers on a lady's hat. Jill—No, because the bees know there is no sweetness under the hat. — Yonkers Statesman.

"Very. When she's away he even washes the dishes after every meal he gets for himself." — Detroit Free Press.

"Think of your wonderful immortality from harm if you mind your own business." — Loomis.

GERMANS USE ELEPHANTS LIKE HINDOOS

When the Germans began to clear up the debris of the war in a Belgian village they had taken they found themselves short of men. Some one thought of the Hagenbeek elephants in Hamburg, and one was sent for. He was easily trained to do heavy work, the work of several men, and this photograph shows him working as calmly as he might have done in India.

Already a squad sufficiently large to make up two elevens has reported for practice. Announcement will soon be made of the schedule of playing dates. This schedule will include some of the best independent football teams in Ohio.

Players who have already reported for practice are Kelly, Keyes, Hagar, Smeltz, Williams, Jenkins, Davis, Summers, Nutter, Simpson, Gilmore, Martin, Fouts, Red Martin, Hinger, Carson, Young, Nehls, Hawkins, C. Clara Kimball Young.
World Film Corporation presents the comedy play "Marrying Money," in which Clara Kimball Young is starred.

Miss Young's versatility will have a chance of showing itself to advantage in this film; she is equally at home in comedy roles as well as dramatic.

The story of "Marrying Money" is a satire upon matrimony, nothing more or less. It reveals the marriage game, as it is frequently played, in all its unmistakable cynicism and baseness, although it does not overlook the humorous side of the matter.

Mrs. Niles, an ambitious society lady, has a pretty daughter, Mildred, played by Clara Kimball Young, and she wants the girl to make a good match. Along comes an eligible Count who, however, hasn't got anything more to recommend him to Mildred than his title. Exit his Countship. As Mr. Niles, Mildred's father, fails in business, it is imperative that the girl should now marry real money. Instead of which she falls in love with a penniless young fellow, Chester Barnett, and they are married. There is consternation in the bird's family, which is removed when it is revealed that the young bridegroom inherits money.

James Young is the director of this picture into which he has introduced many excellent touches that heighten the effect of the comedy which is sure to please motion picture fans.

"Marrying Money" will be shown at the Auditorium Theatre, today, matinee and night.

Rare Modesty.
"Blikins has been a passenger on some of the largest ships afloat."
"Is that his sole claim to distinction?"
"No, indeed. What makes Blikins unique is the fact that he didn't apparently become an intimate friend of all the prominent people on board those ships." — Birmingham Age-Herald.

DECISION THAT BENTON BELONGS TO N. Y. GIANTS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, Aug. 24.—The National Baseball Commission today decided that Rube Benton, formerly of the Cincinnati club, is legally the property of the New York National League club.

In announcing its decision, the commission exonerates from all blame the Pittsburgh club, which, it says, acted in good faith in holding the pitcher.

The commission also announced that the game between the Chicago and Pittsburgh teams, played on August 17, and which was won by the former, has been thrown out and will be re-played on September 3 or 4, when the two teams play again. This was the game in which Benton pitched for Pittsburgh.

After the announcement of the commission John McGraw said Benton would probably participate in one of the games tomorrow against the Pirates.

The potato crop of Germany was one of the largest on record. The official statistics place the figures at 50,200,000 metric tons, as against 34,300,000 metric tons in 1912. Quite a high percentage of the potatoes were diseased and could not be kept over winter, and the crop being large the prices obtained were low.

For the benefit of their comrades the proposed women regiments for the war should not be given any kind of missiles that have to be thrown.

The people who make fun of the music played by the country band are quite frequently the same ones who depress the value of real estate in their neighborhood by the persistence of their piano and vocal exercises.

Many people are remarking how few men there are nowadays who enjoy taking 20 to 30 mile walks for a day's outing. Probably these same men are sitting on the back seat of an automobile, and growling because the road is rough.

employer gets around, they sometimes think they can save five minutes of their precious time and energy by sweeping the refuse into the streets.

This newspaper has previously remarked on the common habit of throwing away on the street the paper bags in which fruit, candy, peanuts, etc., were purchased. Another slovenly and offensive trick is the habit of tearing up letters and scattering the scraps over the walks. Some one has to pick up these pieces bit by bit if the street is ever to look clean.

Probably the only way to get at this disorderly spirit is in the long run through the schools. Every school room ought to have a regular lesson each spring, and perhaps several times a year on the public value of neatness. The children should be told that dirty streets make the town less attractive to strangers, make people less likely to come here to live, that they depress the value of real estate, and thus work against the prosperity and comfort of every family.

Higher Cost of Government.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)
A bulletin just issued by the census bureau, showing the increasing cost of government, national, state, county and municipal, during the decade 1903-13, is startling in its percentages. In that period the revenues of the federal government increased 45 per cent, while the expenditures increased 54.5 per cent. State governments, notwithstanding an increase of 94.3 per cent in revenues, were unable to keep pace with the growth in expenditures for governmental cost, which was 105.9 per cent. Nor did county governmental cost lag. With an increase of revenues of 55.8 per cent, their expenditures grew 95.2 per cent. Municipalities, including towns of 5000 population and over, increased their revenues 98.3 per cent, and their expenditures 103.2.

The federal government in 1913 was the only one where revenues were not less than expenditures. It has a surplus of about $1,000,000, or one-tenth of 1 per cent of the revenues. The states had a deficit of $15,000,000, or 4 per cent of the revenues; the counties were in a similar hole, while the cities and towns staggered under a deficit of $129,000,000, or 12 per cent of the revenues.

Automobile Bill of the U. S.

(Scientific American.)
On June 1 of the current year the number of automobiles in the United States for the first time reached 2,000,000. Figuring on an average of four persons to each car, which is very conservative, there are 8,000,000 people in this country in daily enjoyment of motoring. What it costs to follow this sport is of interest because of the stupendous figures involved. To run 2,000,000 cars for one year requires at the very least 1,000,000,000 gallons of "gas," worth $130,000,000. 20,000,000 gallons of lubricating oil, worth $5,000,000. 12,000,000 tires, worth not less than $16 apiece, or $192,000,000; accessories and extra comforts, goggles, gloves and caps, $50 per car, or $100,000,000; garage charges on short tours (exclusive of gas and oil) $100 per car per year, or $200,000,000; repairs made necessary by wear, tear and accident (exclusive of tires), $50 per car per year, or $100,000,000. Total running expenses for all cars in use, $720,000,000. Add thereto the value of the 600,000 new cars purchased during the year at an average price of $750, or $450,000,000, and we get the immense total of $1,170,000,000 spent in a single year (1915) on the sport of motoring.

It was Hack Garber's theory that the time to kiss a woman is when opportunity presents itself. Hack is long since dead, but his system has never been improved upon.

Don't hurrah for anybody. There is too much noise as it is.

You will have noticed that the man who operates on the theory that a sucker is born every minute nearly always has plenty of money.

Some of the Colonels served in the war. But most of them are auctioneers.

The bee, which has a great reputation for thrift and industry, works three months in the year and loafing nine. How did the bee get the name of "busy"?

The Kansas man who is suing for a divorce on the ground that his wife has two soulmates, is entitled to his decree. One soulmate should be enough for any wife.

The so-called "death watch," with its mysterious ticking at night time, is due to nothing more serious than the furniture beetle. The larva of this insect burrows in the furniture, making the pinholes which are often seen in old furniture.

Spirit of the Press

A Lone Jack Remark.

It was at an earlier anniversary of the Lone Jack battle that a former governor of Missouri said: "If boodling has been going on it has not cost the people anything."
Recent and current events in Kansas City and Jackson County would make it mighty interesting to some other politician should today say the same thing. Maybe he would put it differently. Maybe he would say that padded payrolls did not cost the people anything, that high contracts, loafers and waste, and what they call "honest" graft did not cost the people anything. But no one had better say it at Lone Jack or anywhere else in Jackson County and Kansas City. For the people are "on."—Kansas City Times.

Germany Our Benefactor.

Two sorts of preparations are necessary for national defense. The first is psychological. The people must be brought to realize the necessity for making provision against the day when no nation, however peaceful, has yet been able to avoid. The second is physical—the actual making of a better army and navy.

The work of psychological preparations has been greatly forwarded during the last year by assistance from an unexpected source. When the history of this phase of a better national defense is written Germany must not be overlooked. Germany, by her course toward America and Americans, has helped to clear away a number of illusions for us—to fill the whole public with a greater willingness to grapple with this important problem.
We doubt if all that speakers advocating reasonable preparations for national defense have said has had quite so much influence with the American public as the spectacle of what Germany has done. We doubt if the most eloquent message President Wilson could send to Congress would forward this psychological preparation so effectively as the events of the last four months.

Let us not be ungrateful. Germany has done us great injuries and done them deliberately. But she has also done us some good—although it was involuntary. She has made everybody see that a great nation cannot wholly rely—sometimes cannot rely at all—on the good will and respect for international law of a powerful and aggressive country.—Chicago Herald.

VAIN FEARS.

Why should I fear the hour of going? I'll venture forth, like some good sport, upon the silent tide that's flowing to an unknown, uncharted port. The world forged on before my coming, as it will jog when I am dead, the spheres will on their course go humming, the stars will glitter overhead. Man fears his passing, but he'd ortn't; the vine that to you trellis clings is just as valued and important, in old Dame Nature's scheme of things. Am I more craven than the creeper that shades the doorway of my coop? Shall I be coward, doubter, weeper, when these old vines don't care a whoop? That roses do not fear the weather that puts the finis to their bloom; they seek the summer air together, and unprotesting meet their doom. Have I less courage than the roses, shall I forsake my cheerful grin, when some old sawbones grim discloses the solemn fact that I'm all in? The lovely roses and the lilies, the boys and damsels all must go; it's natural; why have the willies? It's no excuse for fear or woe.

During this time fifty of his friends gathered at his home, and near time for his arrival, the lights were turned out, the friends hiding in three rooms adjoining the sitting room into which he would come. Upon their arrival friends rushed out to greet him. Mr. Fairall cannot give an account of the next few minutes, and his friends smile as they describe them. The evening was pleasantly spent in music, songs and a general good time. About 10 o'clock lunch was served, which all said was the "best ever." Speeches were made by Mr. J. F. Stilgenbauer, Mr. C. CHINCHILLA CLOTH COAT.

A distinctly smart winter coat is featured in dark gray chinchilla cloth, belted with silk cord girdle. Plenty of fullness is evident in the skirt part, and the fastening, being one sided, suggests the Russian style. A very high necked velvet vest finishes with a deep roll collar of gray chinchilla fur. Deep cuffs are also featured in gray chinchilla. The cloth topped button boots and floppy velvet hat with metal topped pins are interesting details.

COMPACT TRAVELING BAG.

Any device which will save room when packing a suit case is welcomed by the traveler. A very compact bag is made of cretonne. At the top of the bag is a folding coat hanger. The bag is made of one long piece of cretonne. The bottom is turned up to form a deep pocket, and the top is cut into a point and forms the flap. Into the deep pocket one can pack shoes, over shoes and slippers, or one's comb, brush and toilet accessories might be slipped into it. Snap fasteners are used to secure the flap so that the contents in the bag will not fall out. A loop of tape and a button will answer the same purpose.

To make the bag still more practical safety pins can be placed at either end of the coat hanger and at the point of the loop. On these pins one can hang skirts and thus make the most of the small closet room which one usually finds on her vacation.

Granville

Granville, Aug. 24.—The incessant rain is damaging flower gardens as well as ruining dispositions in this locality. There is hardly any activity that isn't affected by the unusual weather conditions, and an occasional glimpse of the sun is hailed with great acclaim. Even at that, the people in these parts have much to be thankful for!

Mrs. W. P. Ulman left today for Monroeville, O., to attend a house party of her sisters at the home of Mrs. Mary Boswell, formerly of Granville.

A card received from a former Granville resident, signed E. D. C., reads as follows:

"These California people are sure they have the best in the world, and each section of the state is equally confident that it is superior to the rest in climate, scenery, productive-ness or what not. But this middle-westerner still swears by Ohio."

Next Friday afternoon, August 27, is the time set for The King's Daughters' treat to the inmates of the Infirmary.

The Democratic Central committee of the village and township has called a meeting to be held in the Municipal building on Friday evening, August 27, at 7:30 o'clock to nominate town and township officers to be voted for at the November election. The Central committeemen hold over for another year and are: Frank Granger, East Precinct, Carl Price, West Precinct; Fred Williams, township.

Miss M. E. Penny and her house guest, Miss Stone of Chillicothe, were entertained by Mrs. J. S. Jones at Bryn Du yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. J. W. Rohrer, soprano, was one of the soloists at the Teachers' Institute, held in the High school auditorium, Newark, yesterday. Miss Ruth Rockwood was accompanist.

Picking peaches continues to be a steady industry at the Case orchards, and despite the rain many people are driving there for their fruit. This should be the banner week for "Champions."

Mrs. Fanny L. Perry and Miss Smyser of Delaware are visiting at the home of Mrs. John Larimore in East College street.

Mrs. Ed Wright is entertaining her cousin, Miss Isabel Lytle of Pittsburg at her home in East College street.

Miss Ruth Atwell, who was the guest for a few days of Miss Ruth Rockwood in West Elm street, has returned to her home in Zanesville, O.

Rev. and Mrs. Clarence M. Eddy of Indianapolis, who have been visiting Mrs. Eddy's parents, Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Harford, left this morning for Uniontown, Pa., where they will spend a fortnight at Mr. Eddy's old home.

The King's Daughters ask for second hand baby clothes for the Baby Camp in Columbus, to be sent to the home of Miss Clara Evans in South Main street—at any time.

Eddie Futerer is suffering from the effects of an accident which happened Saturday evening. It seems that he and other boys were arranging pennants in the Boys' Club room, and Edward was standing on the shoulders of John Rose tacking a pennant to the wall, when he slipped and fell to the floor, sustaining a fracture of the bones of the wrist. He is making a fine recovery.

Beautiful, But Broke; Or, How She Lost $6,000,000

Mrs. Maude Bre Court Barclay.

The strange story of the loss of $6,000,000 by a New York society beauty came out in court the other day when a judge fined her $250 for contempt in failing to explain why she could not pay a debt of $3027. The alternative for the time is imprisonment, for despite the general belief to the contrary, they still imprison for debt in New York City and state.

It developed that Mrs. Barclay had filed a petition in bankruptcy, and that practically all her great fortune was gone.

Where the well known society leader's $6,000,000, represented by large holdings, has vanished was explained by her lawyer, Norman W. Kerngood. He said Mrs. Barclay, like many other social leaders, had entrusted her business affairs to agents and servants.

FRENCH AVIATOR WHO ESCAPED IS A POPULAR HERO

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Paris, Aug. 24.—Eugene Gilbert the French aviator, brought down five German aeroplanes before he was compelled to land, by an accident to his motor, on Swiss territory last June. Since his escape from Switzerland and his arrival in Paris on Sunday night, he has been treated as a popular hero.

When first interned in Switzerland, Gilbert gave his word not to attempt to escape. The enforced idleness prayed on his mind, however, and he took back his promise and seized the first opportunity to get away. With the assistance of a friend who provided a disguise, he made his way to Lucerne and Geneva, and thence to Annemasse in France.

True Secret of Keeping Youthful Looking

"The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known hygienist, "is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. Without these requirements, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood and lodging in various organs, tissues, joints. One becomes flabby, obese, nervous, mentally sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled and salow of face. The bowels working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects, has been the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit, which may now be had in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an ingredient derived from a humble May root, the purpose of which has been called 'vegetable calomel' because of its effectiveness—though of course it is not to be classed with the real calomel of mercurial origin. There is no habit-forming constituent in 'sentinel tablets'—that's the name—and their use is not followed by weakness or exhaustion. On the contrary, these harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Sentinel tablets, which may be procured from any druggist—a dime's worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

Chief Cause of Pimples, Blotches, Sallow Skin

(Messenger of Health.)

Unslightly eruptions, pimples, blotches, sallowness or muddy skin, usually are due to a sluggish liver, a constipated bowel—and a polluted blood stream as a consequence. How foolish in such cases to resort to outward applications, which can never have natural, permanent results. If more people only knew it, there is a very simple remedy to be found in any drug store, which is as effective as it is harmless and quick acting. It is an old formula, long recognized by the medical profession, which has been put in tablet form, and at such small cost no one need now be deprived of this wonderful benefit.

Great Demand for New Constipation Remedy

They say that the advent of the "sentinel tablet" as a vegetable substitute for calomel has resulted in an extraordinary demand for this remarkable product. It seems to have made a hit particularly with those afflicted with chronic constipation, who were quick to recognize its advantages over calomel and the usual laxatives. Sentinel tablets, aside from their efficacy, doubtless owe their success largely to a tendency to aid in bringing about natural functioning—instead of encouraging the cathartic habit. Also, instead of injuring the membranous lining of the organs involved, they exert a healing influence. Instead of weakening, they build up the system. They are not only of course preferred on this account to the violently acting purgatives, but the most sensible for the complex and delicate difficulties of the character mentioned.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

There is a grinding sound in the rear axle or gears of my car which I cannot locate. When the wheel turns halfway around it grinds, and the rest of the way it runs smoothly. Can you explain this trouble?

It is a good plan to look for the simplest troubles first. If the sound is a rasping or scraping one it is probably due to dragging brake bands, or the drums may be out of true. If the brake bands are dragging loosen them up slightly. Unless the drums are not badly out of round it will be sufficient to loosen up the bands, but if this will not answer the drums should be trued up in a lathe or else replaced. The grinding noise may be due to a shaft that is bent, and it is more probable that an axle shaft instead of a transmission shaft would give trouble in this way. The bending of a shaft will cause any gear on it to alternately mesh too loosely and too tightly with its mating gear. This will cause a grinding sound. Whether this is the trouble can only be determined by inspection. The straightening of the shaft should be left to some man who has had experience, and probably you could not do it anyway because of lack of equipment.

Another possibility is that one of the roller bearings is causing the trouble. One of the rollers may be broken, although this is not very likely, or the roller race may be worn out of round.

I would like to replace my five passenger body with a seven. Will the extra overhang on the rear axle hurt the motor?

The extra load will not harm the motor if it is not allowed to labor on high gear. When it is evident that the car cannot climb a certain hill on high gear, rather than force it up, a shift to second should be made. The same applies when running on second gear and low gear is required. There is more danger of hurting the springs or wearing out the tires. Possibly it will be necessary to substitute stiffer springs. Unless the tires are amply large for the weight they are now carrying, oversizes should be put on, at least on the rear, where the greater load is.

Can you tell me of a solution to clean out a radiator which expels water that is very dark brown in color when emptying the radiator?

Dark brown water in a radiator is due to the suspension in the water of particles of dirt or rust. There is no necessity of applying a solution to the radiator that will dissolve these particles because they can be very easily removed by flushing the radiator with large quantities of water.

I have four dry cells located in the tool box of my machine which are used for starting the motor. They will last only about three weeks, whereas one set should last the whole season. There is no short circuit, and the connections seem to be all right. Can you tell me the trouble?

One possible cause is that the cells you are using are defective, or it may be that the coil is out of adjustment. You do not state the type of coil that you have, but if it is that vibrator design it is quite possible that your high battery consumption is due to the tremblers being out of adjustment. If you have this type of coil try cleaning the contact points of the tremblers, and then adjust each trembler until it is working well and produces a good spark at the plug.

The most likely cause of your difficulty is that you are using too few dry cells. It would be much better to connect up five or six in series, as the voltage generated by four is not enough to do the work.

The slips covering the cushions and top of my car, which is almost a new one, have become black and have grease spots on them. Can you tell me what will clean and remove the spots?

Chloroform will be found quite satisfactory for taking the grease spots out of your cushions and top, although it will not clean out any dust or dirt that has settled on them. In cleaning the cushions and top it is well to first brush the dust out thoroughly, then remove grease by the use of chloroform and finally wash thoroughly with castile soap and lukewarm water. Gasoline has often been suggested as a good cleaning fluid for such purposes, but gasoline is a solvent for rubber, and the material that tops and cushions are made of often contains a rubber compound that is injured by the use of gasoline.

What are the objections to a two cycle motor?

The objections to the two cycle motor are that it is difficult to throttle down, it is uneconomical and is not as adaptable to high speeds as the four cycle.

Will one new patent piston ring in each cylinder give good results with the old rings of the ordinary type? If so, what groove should I put them in?

One new patent ring will improve the running of your motor, but naturally three such rings will be more effective. If you use only one ring it should be put into the top groove.

Recently I had the carbon removed from my cylinders, but even after that when running about fifteen miles per hour on top gear when I want to pick up quickly with my spark retarded below halfway the motor knocks very hard. What is the cause?

The fact that your motor knocks when the spark is halfway advanced when you are accelerating from a speed of fifteen miles an hour on high gear does not indicate that there is anything wrong with your motor. Try retarding the spark further under these conditions and see if the car does not run all right. The idea to keep in mind when using the spark lever is to set it at the point just below that at which the motor will knock under the particular conditions that the motor is operating under at any given time.

My crank case holds three gallons and three quarts of oil when up to the pet cock lever, and I have a dash sight feed which shows a steady stream when I have the oil at the right level, but when I have the amount of oil I speak of the motor smokes. How can I stop it smoking and still know that I have enough oil to lubricate the motor?

The manufacturer of this motor should have set the oil level at the correct height. Therefore we would not advise doing anything to change the height of the oil in the crank case until you have made sure that the trouble is not elsewhere. Smoking may be due to loose fitting piston rings, worn pistons or worn cylinders or all of these combined. Poor oil might also be causing the motor to smoke, or it may be that the cooling system is not working properly, with the result that a large quantity of the oil is consumed because the motor runs hot. If smoking does not seem to be caused by any of these conditions it might be well to reduce the level of oil in the crank case, but before taking such a step you should confer with the manufacturer of the car or with some good repair man.

My motor stops when throttle is placed in certain notch on quadrant. When running slow around corners or over crossings and on speeding up when the throttle reaches a certain notch on the steering gear quadrant, the motor either stops or jerks about six or ten yards. What is the cause of this?

Probably with the throttle in a certain position some part of the throttle mechanism short circuits the ignition current. With the car running move the throttle lever until the motor starts to miss or stop; then stop the car and look for the trouble. It is also possible that the movement of the throttle interferes with the operation of the carburetor. See that the air valve is not affected. If the throttle and the auxiliary air valve are connected up, or if the throttle in any way controls the flow of gasoline from the jet or jets, this mechanism should be carefully inspected.

I have trouble with my car losing power and speed. On grades that should be made on high I have to go in second. At times when going up grades on second the car checks up as if the brakes had been applied. Then again it will gain speed; then slow up as before. What is the cause?

The peculiar action of your car is due to temporary disarrangement of some part of the ignition or carburetion systems. If the former is at fault the trouble must be caused either by a short circuit or a loose connection. Inspect the wiring thoroughly for defective insulation at which points the bare wires may be grounded on the metal parts of the car, thus deflecting the current from its regular path. Go over all connections and tighten up any that are loose. After doing this the motor should run all right if the trouble is with the ignition. If the carburetion system is causing your motor to run irregularly you must be getting an improper mixture at times. If the mixture is too rich black smoke will be seen at the exhaust, and if this is the case the trouble is probably caused by dirt under the float valve, or there is a small possibility that it is due to a sticking of the auxiliary air valve. This valve may remain closed temporarily so that too rich a mixture is delivered to the motor for a time. On the other hand, if the mixture is too lean, trouble may be the result of any of the following causes: The auxiliary air valve may stick open, thus allowing too much air to be delivered to the motor; the float may stick so that an insufficient supply of gasoline is the result. Too small a quantity of gasoline might also be the result of dirt in the spray nozzle or possibly in the feed pipe from the gasoline tank.

Will you please tell me how to prevent the throwing of oil from my valve tappet guides?

The leakage of oil out of valve tappet guides is due to the wearing away of the guides, so that there is more or less space between it and the tappet. When this condition exists the motion of the tappet carries the oil up from the crank case and allows it to flow out over the upper end of the guide. The only remedy is to fit new guides.

TO THE AMOUNT OF $30,000,000 WILL BE LOANED COTTON GROWERS

Secretary McAdoo Will Give Help to South Since Staple Has Been Declared Contraband.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Washington, Aug. 21.—Secretary McAdoo was prepared today to extend financial aid to the Southern cotton growers to enable them to dispose of their product to the greatest advantage.

The secretary announced that in view of the action of the allies in making cotton contraband, he was ready, if necessary, to take either one of two courses to help the cotton producers. One of these plans is to deposit $30,000,000 of more in gold in the federal reserve banks at Atlanta, Dallas and Richmond to enable these banks to discount loans on cotton secured by warehouse receipts made by national and state banks belonging to the reserve system. No interest would be charged on the deposits for the present at least.

The other plan is to deposit the gold directly with national banks agreeing to lend the money on cotton at a rate not to exceed six per cent. The latter plan will be used if the object sought can be accomplished with greater efficiency thereby.

Secretary McAdoo declared that if there was cooperation between the bankers, the merchants and producers the cotton situation could be handled with happy results.

GERMAN PAPERS KEEP SILENCE ABOUT ARABIC

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Berlin, Aug. 24.—Via London.—No further details concerning the sinking of the Arabic have been published here and the Berlin papers refrain from comment upon the situation resulting from that event.

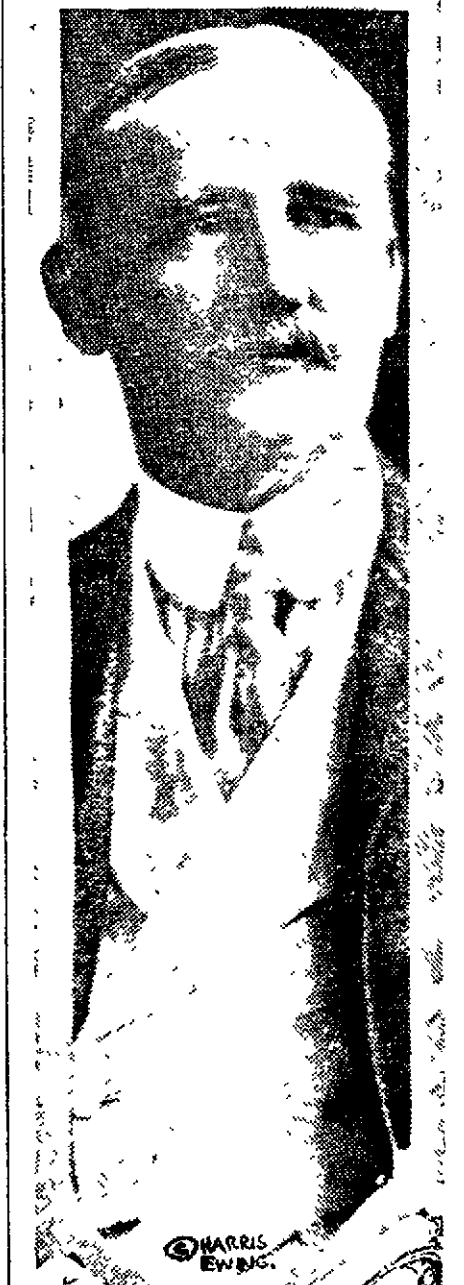

The newspapers publish what purports to be a brief dispatch to the London Telegraph, quoting Joseph P. Tumulty, President Wilson's secretary, as saying that Americans are united with the president and will if necessary offer their lives to maintain the inalienable rights of Americans on land and sea.

The Kreuz Zeitung says: "These inalienable rights, as is known, consist of using British passenger steamers."

Several papers publish the Arabic's manifesto on a trip from New York to London beginning July 29 as contained in a report of the German-American chamber of commerce of New York. This report says that the Arabic "which was wanted like a battleship, had twelve American aviator angels aboard." The Lokal Anzeiger says that this report shows that the Arabic was equipped for battle and therefore not to be considered a harmless merchantman.

The Tages Zeitung heads the London Telegraph dispatch with the line "Wilson's secretary threatens."

LUTHERAN RALLY NEXT THURSDAY; PROGRAM GIVEN

Below is published the program of the Licking County Lutheran Rally, to be held at Mountbuilders' Park, Thursday, August 26. It will be noted that there will be plenty of excitement and varied entertainment for all present and something to interest everybody.

Rev. Dr. C. G. Heckert, president of Wittenberg college of Springfield, O., will give the address of the day, entitled "What of the Lutheran Church?" Dr. Heckert is a man of rare ability, otherwise he never would have been entrusted with the high position which he holds. As president of the college it devolves upon him that young men are properly educated for the ministry. It is to him practically that the various churches of the Lutheran denomination look for capable pastors, and it is he who is bringing them forth.

Wittenberg college stands today as one of the greatest colleges of the state. It is one of the few institutions of the state in which the required branches are taught so thoroughly that scholars taking up teaching as their course are granted letters of commendation by the state commission of education upon completion, and what more could be said for the man at the helm? To hear a man of such capabilities is not to be overlooked when the opportunity is presented. He will begin his address at 2 o'clock.

The entire devotional program will be made as short as possible. The rest of the program is self-explanatory, and is as follows:

Your Boys and Girls

Train your little ones to be helpful. Teach them to have consideration for the comfort, pleasure and convenience of others, especially of their elders. In this way you will be developing the better side of their nature, and will be fitting them for present as well as for future usefulness.

Every child in the household, old enough to help, should be given some small share in the daily work. In a family where there is but one maid of all work, or perhaps none at all, there are many duties which the children can well perform. Little people, as a rule like to be busy, and will really enjoy helping mother. At the same time their duties should be light and should be varied occasionally.

It is not well to give them the same thing to do every day. Such a course will afford but little scope for the exercise of their many faculties. When, however, work is varied they soon learn to do a number of things readily and well.

Quarrels will come, now and then, even in the best regulated households. As a rule permit such difficulties to be adjusted by the older and more peacefully inclined children. But rather than have the children go through the ignominy of complete insurrection, packing up dolls and games and going "right straight home," for instance, I have sometimes suggested that a committee of three be chosen to tell me just what the trouble is.

I am sure you will think hard and tell me just right, I say, and at once the sweeter faces become serious, and they really do try hard to report just "square." With a simple suggestion or a tactful little reproach trying not to locate the exact culprit, if possible, and always to include ones own children, if there is the slightest reason, any mother can easily avert the growing cloud and sunshine and laughter again take the place of angry tones and words.

Every Day Etiquette

"Is it permitted to use a visiting card to invite a friend to a card party or musicale?" asked Jane.

"The visiting card is frequently employed for afternoon musicales, card parties and similar entertainments. In the left hand corner the word 'Cards' or 'Music' is written to hint at the nature of the entertainment. The hour and date are also written," advised her aunt.

"Is it necessary for the members of the bridal party to call upon the bride's mother after the ceremony?" inquired Mabel.

The bridesmaids, ushers, and all persons who were included in the bridal party should call on the mother and also on the bride as soon as she is at home," said her mother.

In Milady's Boudoir

By Gwen Sears

Some women think they are doing an especially good thing for their beauty and health by taking a warm bath every day, and if they find time, even twice. The result of their indiscretion is a constant catching cold, for they treat their skin very much as they do the butcher's beef. Others will adhere to the opposite habit; that is to use cold water principally either in the shape of cold plunges, sprays or sponge baths. If both were used the result would be perfect.

There is nothing more stimulating to the circulation of the blood, nothing that will harden the skin so much against the changes of temperature than the use of cold water. Only—and that is the secret of it, the cold spray should come after the warm bath if you insist on taking one every day. Skin will be skin, whether the inner organs be dainty or coarse, whether red or "blue" blood circulates through it.

The one rule stands good for all with the exception of the bather's age, her physical condition and the action of her heart. The latter should also decide the temperature of the warm bath, which, as a rule, ought to be only mildly warm, not boiling except in the case of a heavy cold, just in its first stage. There are only a few people who can stand the strain on the heart of an extremely hot bath without feeling too exhausted or too excited after it.

At any rate a rest is required after any hot bath to get the good out of it, which is to animate and regulate the circulation of the blood and the opening of the pores to freer circulation and greater action.

There comes a time when our hands are most troublesome members. I know of nothing more disagreeable than to be conscious of one's hands. If they are dry and rough, not well manicured, or from any other cause intrude themselves upon one's consciousness, there is an end to graceful ease and self-possession. That is the time when we are apt to drop fragile tea cups or knock over vases and enter into everlasting disrepute with a hostess.

To be beautiful, hands must receive such care that they will be comfortable. Then they will not intrude on our consciousness. Fall and winter outdoor sports work havoc with fair skins. Carrying fur muffs which overheat the hands make them chap more easily. Care should be taken not to wash the hands in very hot or very cold water. Tepid water is best, with a little ammonia or borax to soften it. Never use cheap soaps. Pure castile may be used for washing clothing or dishes instead of the harsh yellow cleaning soaps, which crack and dry the skin.

Olive oil soap or almond soap soothe the hands and should be used for the toilet. Always wipe the hands dry and they will not be as apt to chap when you go out of doors. The following recipe makes a nice lotion for chapped hands and arms: Cocoa butter, one ounce, oil of sweet almonds, one ounce; oxide of zinc, one dram; borax, one dram; oil of bergamot six drops.

The following preparation will cool the hands which are hot from inflammation and it will remove the resulting redness: Glycerine, one and a half ounces; rose water, one and a half ounces; tannin, one dram. This mixture is better than pure glycerine which is so strong it is apt to make the skin burn.

CHIC MISSES' SUIT.

The belted effect in misses' suit styles holds quite an important place among the season's smart models. Here it is featured in navy mohair, with belt confining narrow plaits that show above and below the waist line. The high roll collar with metal embroidery lends a military note and the oblong metal buttons afford a trim effect. Deep cuffs and an odd shaped yoke are interesting features.

fact that he has a booth of teddy bears. He is assisted by his wife and daughter, who operate a second booth. Mr. Mullen states that they might have had a good season had it not rained twenty-eight days last month. He said he was hopeful that it wouldn't be over twenty-five this month. John has become quite a noted swimmer among the resorters and is frequently called upon to give exhibitions of his prowess in the waters of the lake.

On Inspection Tour.
Assistant Fire Marshal John Baird of this city has been engaged on inspection work for the past few days at New Philadelphia and Canal Dover. Marshal Baird has been kept busy every minute and no little detail has been overlooked by him while engaged in work for the state department. Mr. Baird has been highly complimented by the various fire chiefs in the cities where he has visited.

Transferred to Decatur.
Mr. George M. Fenberg, formerly of this city, has been transferred from Waterloo, Ia., to Decatur, Ill., where he will have charge of the City where he arranged for his book-cities. They have also taken a trip down the Hudson river and after visiting Baltimore and Washington will probably return by the way of Norfolk, Va., on one of the ocean steamers.

city will undoubtedly be crowded something doing every minute of the day for an elaborate program has been arranged. A number of excel-

Early Morning Fire.
Fire discovered at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Ryan carpet cleaning establishment in Union street near the railroad, burned a small hole in the floor under the cleaning machine. Firemen found that the blaze resulted from spontaneous combustion in dirt from carpets which had accumulated in the machine. The loss was nominal.

Officials Depart Early.
Mayor R. C. Bigbee, Service Director W. C. Christian, Engineer Charles Wells, Councilmen H. L.
Rexroth and O. J. Payne and Messrs.
T. M. Edmiston, J. F. Irwin and
F. S. Neighbor, who will inspect methods of resurfacing streets in Cleveland and Toledo, left Newark in two automobiles early Tuesday morning.
They will be absent from the city several days. The city is considering the proposition of repairing streets by putting a new surface on the old pavement and an inspection of this work in these cities will be made.

No Police Court.
Owing to the absence of Mayor Bigbee there was no session of police court Tuesday morning. But two arrests were made, two defendants being charged with fighting. The hearing of the charge will be delayed until the return of the mayor.

The Amateur as Bootmaker.
In the early days when Tolstoy adopted manual labor as a religious duty he took lessons in bootmaking to occupy him during the long winter evenings.
He was at work diligently hammering the wooden pegs into the red sole, an art he had just mastered, says the "Reminiscences of Tolstoy," by his son, when Prince Obolenski came in.
"Look, isn't that grand?" said my father exultantly, holding out his work for the visitor to see.
"It doesn't seem so very difficult," said Obolenski, half in joke.
"Well, you try!"
"Right you are!"
"Very good, but on one condition—every peg you drive in I'll pay you a rouble, and every one you break you'll pay me 10 copecks. Agreed?" Obolenski took the boot, awl and hammer and broke eight pegs, one after the other; then he laughed with his good humored laugh and amid general hilarity paid 80 copecks, which went to the shoemaker.

Lawrence Barrett's Romeo.
Irving contributed to the gaiety of a supper at Lawrence Barrett's Romeo. One night Barrett and his friend, Edwin Booth, met at their club in New York. Barrett, after a brief greeting, bustled toward the door with every appearance of remembering a pressing engagement.
"Hallo! Where are you off to?"
Booth asked.
"To a rehearsal," said Barrett.
"What's the play?"
Barrett said it was "Romeo and Juliet."
"And what part do you take?" Booth asked in sudden access of interest.
"There is only one part for me in the play," Barrett said, drawing himself up in lofty indignation.
"Oh, ah, yes," said Booth; "I know—the nurse!"
The angered tragedian stood forth in haughty silence and did not speak to Booth for two days.—Strand Magazine.

The Caged Emperor.
After Elba Napoleon became a bogey to the whole world as well as to the British government, which had the guarding of him. "Lord Bathurst believed," says Norwood Young in "Napoleon in Exile: St. Helena (1815-1821)," "that Napoleon spent his time in concocting plans for escape." But, said the outlaw to O'Meara, "Where could I go to, allowing that I got out of the island? Every place I could arrive at I would find enemies to seize me."
This puny dread of Napoleon's escape from St. Helena led to England's annexation of the uninhab-ited island of Ascension, 700 miles distant. The even more distant island of Tristan d'Acunha was similarly taken possession of the following year, because it was thought to be too dangerously near the Napoleonic influence.

Thrifty Turks.
The Turk is invariably a brave man
when he is in a subordinate capacity.
Directly, however, he becomes one having authority he turns to peculation.
There is a true story of a Turkish warship which had a wooden propeller shaft, her captain having sold the original shaft at scrap iron prices. There is also the story, equally true, of a battle-ship laid down many years ago which, when nearly ready for launching, had her construction suspended for lack of funds. A few years later the kaiser, in his capacity of the friend of Islam, having arranged a German loan, it was decided to complete the ship. But when they came to look for her no trace remained. Everything had been stolen.—London Mirror.

Sidestepping a Query.

burgh Press.

Piano and Violin.
It is undoubtedly true that between the piano and the violin the latter is the harder instrument to master. The piano is much more of a machine than the violin, and its technique as compared with that of the violin is very much easier to get hold of. The most human of all instruments, the violin is almost boundless in its demands upon the skill of the performer.—New York

ging that he played the best golf of his

TO THE CITIZENS

OF KIBLER AVENUE, CHARLES AND HOOVER STREETS AND ALL OTHERS INTERESTED IN NEW PAVING.

Columbus, O., Aug. 24, 1915.
The modern motto, "Safety First," is seen everywhere. It is a good one, but a better one, for the taxpayer who is about to choose a type of pavement is—be sure you are right, then go ahead.

The Cleveland Trinidad Paving has, through Mr. Benj. Bolin, proposed to build for you an Asphaltic Concrete Pavement.

A pavement with an asphaltic wearing surface is known to have elements almost ideal: its surface, (composed of 30 per cent stone and sand bonded or cemented with 10 per cent of asphalt) possesses durability, ease and cheapness of maintenance, ease of traction, noiselessness, small dust production, sanitariness, comfort and convenience and beauty.

The economics of pavement construction is a subject which each and every honest sincere citizen desires to have carefully and thoughtfully considered before a decision is made for awarding of any contract for any type of pavement; therefore your indulgence is asked at this opportune time to thoughtfully consider the following plain and truthful statement concerning the paving problem for I believe while considering the facts herein offered you will discover it is not an intricate or complex proposition which material men and some contractors attempt to make it appear to all who are placed in a position to consider a type of pavement and the awarding of a contract. The motto of every citizen should be: go slow—investigate before finally choosing a type of pavement.

As the world advances in time it outgrows the measures and customs which in our father's day were considered best; therefore new times demand new measures and the recognition of improved methods found by expert engineers and road builders to be in line with the advance of progress.

This theory or rather this fact prompted paving experts and skilled contractors from all parts of these United States to effect an organization now known as the association for the standardizing of materials and pavements. This association is composed entirely of expert engineers, experienced city engineers and skilled contractors.

Annual meetings occur in different parts of the country of these experts for the purpose of maintaining the standard of excellence for the paving of streets and roads and to consider any new measures or criticisms of old methods. At these annual conventions of this association new methods are considered and, if better than the old, are adopted, or, the standard of the preceding year is amended and adopted for the future. The criticisms offered are sometimes important and prompt a revision in some branches of the paving game in their literature, etc. One of the most notable criticisms was that a wearing surface of a brick pavement or any other type of pavement could not be constructed as permanent. This significant criticism must have forced the brick manufacturers association to change their motto: "a permanent pavement," to their now much proclaimed slogan, namely, "a dependable pavement."

These national standard specifications are recognized by all experienced engineers as the best for their guidance when about to adopt a specification for a village or city.
Your engineer has prepared a standard specification and therefore all danger is eliminated for an inferior material being foisted on your city by any incompetent contractor. Thus is the material question for your city settled by your engineer, when he adopted a standard specification, the contractor must accommodate himself to the ideas of your engineer and not the citizens who in general have little knowledge of the materials which enter into the formation of a pavement.

The type of pavement and the ability of the contractor are the paramount considerations for those who are to pay for the improvement. The question then with the citizen is which type of pavement has the qualities nearer to an ideal, in each phase of condition required for the welfare and comfort of the public.

If durability is the only quality required then give "bricks and joints" another chance to produce unpleasant conditions—roughness, noise, microbes and germs. These in our father's day were considered best because a smooth and durable pavement had not yet developed its superiority and usefulness.

Now, gentlemen, are these thousands of hard surfaces and open joints ideal for this age when "safety first" is every where the motto—as a precaution to prevent disease by contamination and infection?

What kind of a pavement then has been developed (during the advance of progress and the adoption of the slogan safety first) as a near-to-ideal.
Why none but the mechanically and hot mixed asphaltic types; asphalt binding stone together indicates at once stability and dependable durability—(equal to any combination of burnt clay) and a material when in use forms a wearing surface possessed with durability, silence, smoothness, sanitariness, and in truth an ideal surface.

Again let me make a comparison. A brick wearing surface is known to be durable but it is not resilient, silent, clean, or smooth; nor is it agreeable to eye, ear, nose or even to the mouth. These deficiencies were considered by experts to be a great detriment to a dependable brick pavement.
Its surface was known to be a near-to-ideal in its durability only. Hence the experts, experienced engineers and contractors were forced to create a near-to-ideal pavement in its smoothness, silence and sanitariness as well as its durability. This was finally accomplished by a transmutation, as it were, of the binding qualities of asphalt and the durable qualities of stone and sand into an ideal wearing surface composed of 10 per cent asphalt and 90 per cent of stone.

Thus as the world advanced the expert transmutates binding qualities and durable qualities into a wearing surface and produced a surface known as asphaltic concrete. This pavement is considered by all experienced men as durable as brick or block stone, but superior to either because it possesses smoothness, quietness and sanitariness and thus you see that skill and experience were able to create a near-to-ideal wearing surface in a form which is now known as Asphaltic Concrete (Topkela mix.)

An asphaltic concrete pavement on a four inch concrete base compared with a brick on the same kind of a base, according to the bids received, August 20th, will cost on three streets combined $1,128 more than the brick.
Does it occur to you that about 12 cents a foot front for asphalt will eliminate the rattle of wheels, noise, germ breeding cracks, putrid accumulations (which when dry are carried by the winds into your homes) mud and dust?

Brick pavements due to many joints can not be swept clean. They wear best when covered with a cushion of dirt, thus they are dusty when dry and muddy when wet.

The other important factor for your consideration is the ability of the contractor. To obtain this you must be certain the contractor has had much and varied experience, must be sure he is fully equipped and last but not least is financially able to prosecute the work to a final conclusion with dispatch and skill. I am, Yours very respectfully,

What German Conquest Means In Belgium.

German soldiers having driven out or killed off most of the men in Belgium, there are not enough left to work the coal mines, and as a consequence young girls, many of them less than eighteen years of age, have been compelled to go into the mines.
Here are two; there are thousands more just like them, and many very much younger. Coal mining in the United States is considered the hardest and most distasteful form of labor, so distasteful that very few Americans are found among the miners. Only those foreigners used to the hardest kind of work and the lowest wages go down into the mines.

"GETS-IT"—Nothing Else—"Gets" Corns

First-Class Druggists Recommend It.

Look out for "corn remedies" which are made up to resemble "GETS-IT" in either name or package. There is only one "GETS-IT." Its name is G-E-T-S-I-T. Watch the spelling. Every druggist in the country sells "GETS-IT" because the millions of people demand it. Progressive, first-class druggists know there's nothing "Just as good."

"Never in My Life Saw Anything Act So Quickly and Magically as 'Gets-It'."

What's the use wasting time and money on the old methods of trying to remove corns? "GETS-IT" is the only new way of removing them without fail. It's the only new principle corn-remover sold. It's the biggest selling corn-cure ever known because there's no corn or callus among the millions of feet in the world that "GETS-IT" will not remove—there's no escape. "GETS-IT" is the common-sense, simple, sure way. It does away with greasy ointments, salves, pads, cotton rings, harnesses, knives, scissors, razors, files and the rubbing and the painful pike-on-toe walk of so many corn-plagued people. All you do is put 2 drops of "GETS-IT" on the corn is doomed to go. There's no pain, no trouble, no changing shoes because of corns. Be sure it's "GETS-IT." You'll waste money on substitutes.

PATENTS OILING DEVICE FOR PIPE FITTER'S TOOL

A. W. Keller, mechanic and repair man with a shop next to the old Methodist church building in Fourth street, has just been advised by a Washington patent attorney that letters of patent will be issued in a few days on a new oiling device for a pipe fitter's thread cutting tool.

The invention reflects much credit upon Mr. Keller's mechanical ability and his friends hope that he will derive much financial benefit from the product of his fertile brain.

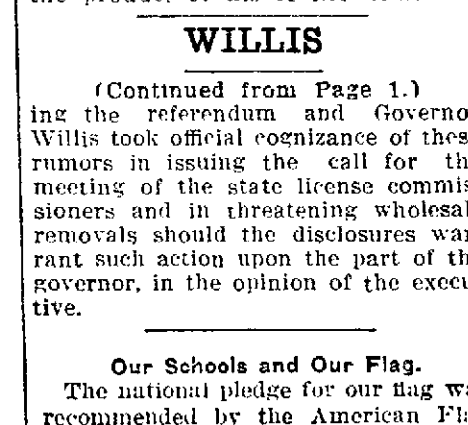

Dean Taylor will speak again at 2:30 p. m., subject, "The Everlasting Miracle." A Christian Endeavor session at 3:25 will close the exercises of the day.

After the noon hour and basket dinner, a business session will be held, followed with short addresses by Rev. W. D. Ward and Miss Sylvia Stegried, a returned missionary.

"GETS-IT"—Nothing Else—"Gets" Corns

First-Class Druggists Recommend It.

Look out for "corn remedies" which are made up to resemble "GETS-IT" in either name or package. There is only one "GETS-IT." Its name is G-E-T-S-I-T. Watch the spelling. Every druggist in the country sells "GETS-IT" because the millions of people demand it. Progressive, first-class druggists know there's nothing "Just as good."

What's the use wasting time and money on the old methods of trying to remove corns? "GETS-IT" is the only new way of removing them without fail. It's the only new principle corn-remover sold. It's the biggest selling corn-cure ever known because there's no corn or callus among the millions of feet in the world that "GETS-IT" will not remove—there's no escape. "GETS-IT" is the common-sense, simple, sure way. GRATITUDE

SHOWN BY FRENCH ARMY FOR SYMPATHY OF AMERICA
DURING WAR.

Three Scholarships Have Been Endowed Appreciate Aid Sent From Lafayette Fund.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, Aug. 24.—Soldiers of the French army have arranged for the establishment in Paris of three scholarships for Americans to be endowed and perpetuated as a monument of gratitude for the sympathy which America has shown to France during the war and as an evidence of their appreciation of the work of the Lafayette fund. News of this action was received at the headquarters of the fund in this city today.

Captain de Poitiers wrote that all branches of the army are supporting the plan. The scholarships are in music, art and sculpture and will be known as the Lafayette fund scholarships of the army. The captain wrote that 40,000 soldiers had been helped and comforted by the kits forwarded to them by the Lafayette fund.

"Is there anything you would like to state to the jury?"

Wing hesitated a moment. Then he said:

"Nothing except that that morning on the road I saw several automobiles on the Roswell road going in the direction of Marietta."

"What time was this?"

"Between 6:30 and 7 o'clock."

"Where were you at the time?"

"I had been fishing with Bob Cochran, a neighbor. We were in a buggy and I had driven my horse into a creek to water him when three or four automobiles went by. We were forty or fifty yards off the road. Bob Cochran said to me 'I wonder what all that crowd is.'"

"I said 'looks like joy riders to me.'"

"Could you tell who were in the machines?"

"No, sir. I couldn't tell whether they were negroes or white people."

W. J. Frey, owner of the place on which Frank was lynched and regarded as the chief witness of the inquest, next was sworn. Mr. Frey, an ex-sheriff of the county, took the stand in his shirt sleeves. He is a very large man of about 45, with a short brown mustache and florid complexion.

"Mr. Frey," asked Acting Solicitor Dorsey, "did you know Leo M. Frank?"

"I attended his trial in Atlanta two days, but I did not know him."

"You were among the first to discover the body?"

"Well, sir, when I got there with Gus Benson and Walter Cann, there wasn't anybody in the grove but Leo M. Frank."

"When did you first know anything had happened that morning?"

"I think it was about 5 o'clock that morning my brother telephoned me the state prison had been broken into and Frank taken out."

"What did you do then?"

"Didn't do anything, but went on about my business at home. Walter, a traveling man, from Augusta, was visiting at my place. I live right on the main road. Mr. Gann and I were in the field about 6:30 or 7 o'clock when three or four automobiles came whizzing by the place. They were about forty yards apart."

"How fast were they going?"

"Well, sir, they were going along pretty fast; I should say about 25 or 30 miles an hour."

"Then, what happened?"

"Well, sir, having heard about the break at the prison farm, it popped right into my mind there was something doing in the way of Frank?"

Mr. Frey said the man he afterwards found out was Frank, was seated in the rear seat of one of the passing cars with a man on either side of him.

"How was Frank dressed?"

"Looked as if he had on a thin shirt of some sort. He was bareheaded."

"Did you know at the time this man was Frank?"

"I thought it was him, but I could not recognize him."

"Did you recognize any of the other passengers in the cars?"

"No sir."

"Do you know now who they were?"

"No sir."

"Were they masked?"

"No sir, but they all wore goggles and their faces were covered with red dust."

"What did you do next?" Frey was asked.

"I turned to Walter Gann, and said 'let's go to the house, there's something going to be done.' We went to the house and Mrs. Frey had breakfast ready for us in about five minutes. We ate and I got my car and started and we put out for Marietta."

Mr. Frey said he passed the actual scene of the hanging without noticing anything out of the way.

"I had no idea anything had happened that close to my home. So I came on to town, but did not see anything yet. I went to the cemetery, where Mary Phagan is buried, but there was nothing there. I came back into Marietta and met Gus Benson, who said: 'Bill, those automobiles turned into the road by your gin. I drove right back to the gin and when we reached the oak grove there was the body of Frank hanging.'"

"What did you do then?"

"I looked at him, but did not put my hands on him."

"Is there any further light you can throw on this transaction?"

"No sir. I've told you all I saw and all I know."

Frey was excused.

City and county officials testified that they had endeavored diligently to get at the facts of the lynching.

How to Wave Hair to Appear Naturally Curly

You won't need to resort to the painful, stinging curling iron if you will adopt the simple method I will mention. Isn't that good news?

At night merely apply a little liquid salverine with a clean tooth brush, drawing this through the hair from root to tip. This will impart a delightful wave, appearance and a soft, lustrous suggestive of golden sunshine. It will prove beneficial to the hair, instead of making it brittle and dead-looking as the hot iron does. In the morning, instead of your tresses being mean and contrary, you will find them quite easy to do up in any form, and there will be no unpleasant odor, grease or stickiness about the hair. I would suggest that you ask your druggist for the liquid salverine. It requires no mixing and you can put a little into a saucer when required. You won't need to use this at frequent intervals, the way, because its usefulness lasts many days. Emily Condon in Hygienic Review.

but so far their efforts had been of no avail.

"Of course you know these things are kept pretty close and are hard to find out," said Mayor E. P. Dobbs, of Marietta.

Deputy Sheriff Hays and City Marshal Looney stated they were working hard on the case, but at this time could throw no light on the identity of the parties who participated in the lynching.

The nearest disclosure as to what happened in the oak grove near the Frey gin came from J. A. Benson, a Marietta merchant, who drove by the place soon after the lynching party had parked its automobiles by the roadside and had let Frank to the tree where death awaited him.

Mr. Benson said he had a "pretty good suspicion," as to what was going on, but he did not stop to see and he did not recognize anybody in the party.

The text of the jury's verdict was as follows:

"State of Georgia, Cobb county."

"In accordance with the inquisition taken this 17th day of August, 1915, and completed this 24th day of August, 1915, before John A. Booth, coroner of said county, upon the body of Leo M. Frank, who was hanged by the neck until dead in a cluster of woods about two miles east of Marietta in said county, and near what is known as W. J. Frey's gin on the Roswell public road, upon the oaths of Dr. W. H. Perkinson, J. N. Grant, J. A. Heard, B. V. Greer, J. F. Shaw, and G. A. Griffin, sworn according to law as jurors, and charged by John A. Booth to inquire when and how and in what manner the said Leo M. Frank came to his death; that the said jurors aforesaid make and return the following presentments in reference to the aforesaid matters and things concerning which we were sworn to inquire by the said John A. Booth, coroner. We attach the evidence adduced at this inquest, to this, our inquisition, and make the same a part of it."

"We, the jurors aforesaid, upon our oath say that Leo M. Frank did on the 17th day of August, 1915, in said county, come to his death by being hanged by the neck until dead by unknown parties."

Are Women Naturally Despondent?

A prominent writer so claims. Women are constituted with a delicate organism and in nine cases out of ten mental depression may be attributed to an abnormal condition of the system, which expresses itself in nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, and as a result despondency. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a simple remedy made from roots and herbs, is the one great remedy for this condition. It goes to the root of the trouble and overcomes despondency.

Samuel Long, residing in Commodore street, suffered painful injuries to his side Monday night about 9 o'clock when he was thrown from a buggy at East Main and Gay streets, when the rig was struck by a street car. Another man in the buggy with Long was also pitched out of the vehicle and suffered a badly bruised hip. Neither was believed to have been seriously hurt. Dr. S. G. McClure of West Main street was called and attended the injured man. The buggy was badly damaged.

The moon plays an important part in sign telling. I know several old ladies who regulate all their household affairs, and even the conduct of life, by this luminary. All kinds of weather hang upon the changes of the moon. As a matter of fact, you and I rather like to see the new moon over the right shoulder. To be sure, we have no faith in the beneficial influence of this sign. Still, it is just as well to be cautious about offending her ladyship. Farmers study the shape of the new moon to determine if the month is to be wet or dry. The Indians used to say that if you could hang a powder horn upon the curve of the new moon the month would be generally pleasant. A circle about the moon means a storm approaching. The number of stars within the circle tell the number of days which will elapse before the storm begins. Farmers tell about planting corn in the old of the moon.—Margaret Woodward in Countryside Magazine.

What She Had Shd. Held.

It was the happiest moment of their lives. He had just proposed, and she had grab—er—accepted him.

Then he took a tiny leather case from his pocket and slipped a sparkling clasp on her finger, while she beamed with pride.

"I'm afraid it's rather loose, darling," he murmured. "Shall I take it back and have it made smaller?"

The damsel shook her head decidedly.

"No, Rupert," she said calmly. "An engagement ring is an engagement ring, even if I have to wear it around my neck."—London Telegraph.
